An Interesting Story of the War--- Facts that are

Stranger than Fletion. There is now living in Cincinnati a family the history of which forms something so romantic as to constitute a most interesting

In the summer of 1859, Charles Geroux became a graduate of a college in the southern part of this State. He was the descendant of an aristocratic family who lived in Louisiana, and, to be brief, he was then a full embodiment of the "chivalry," just hav ing entered his majority. While attending college he had formed the acquaintance of Clara G-, who attended a college for young ladies in this city, which acquaintance ripened into attachment and love, and, just before the breaking out of the rebellion, they were married, and removed South. If they desire the paper longer after that with a sweetness and mildness not often combined in the same person. She was at once handsome and womanly.

Within a year after their marriage and settlement in the South, came the fierce, wild blasts of war from Sumter's parapet, and there was none more ready to enter the deadly fray than Charles Geroux. His political tutors were practical secessionists, and he entered upon the war with a fervor and zeal to command the admiration of his friends, and which secured him a major's commission .-His wife opposed his mad scheme with all the power of a woman's eloquence, but to no avail. She openly espoused the cause of the Union, and steadfastly refused to co-operate with her new friends and neighbors. Notwithstanding her love for the old flag, and open Unionism, her husband loved her, and while her husband was at nome the neighbors respected her. Geroux invested all his ready property, which included his wife's fortune, in Confederate bonds, placed them in her hands, gave her a kiss for a short farewell, assuring her that the war would soon be over, and, marching at the head of a victorious column of his country's defenders, she would be proud to welcome him. After his departure, her treatment by his relatives and neighbors became almost intolerable because of her hatred of secession. After two years of service in the Confederate army, he was captured a prisoner by the victorious Sherman, in his march to Atlanta, and sent to Camp Douglas.

This was good news to his wife, who could no longer endure the persecutions she received at the South, and she resolved to make her way North and rejoin him in his prison home, and if she could not secure his pardon, to at least stay near him. Her Confederate bonds were worthless, and she was niless; she made her way to the Missis pi river, and took passage on the ill-fated steamer Sultana for the North; she sold some jewelry for money sufficient to carry her to Chicago. Arriving at Memphis, her child was taken very ill, and by the advice of the captain of the Sultana, she remained there to secure medical aid for the child. Within twenty-four hours thereafter the boiler of the Sultana exploded, and twelve hundred lives

Geroux fared ill at ease in Camp Douglas, and made many stratagems to escape. He finally succeeded in bribing a raw sentinel to let him pass; and to avoid pursuit, a resort to deception became necessary. A comrade of his was on the point of death. His mess dressed the dead soldier in the Major's uni-form, and conveyed him to the dead house, and gave his name as " Major Charles Geroux, Third Louisiana regiment, Confederate States army." The next morning the body was taken away and buried, and the rank, name, regiment, and place of burial, were duly re-corded in the register of Camp Douglas dead by C. H. Jordan, the undertaker for the Government at Chicago. That night Geroux escaped. His absence created no inquiry, as he was reported dead. For the purpose of avoiding public roads and conveyances, he took a horse from the pasture near Camp Douglas, belonging to J. L. Hancock, formerly President of the Board of Trade of Chicago, and by avoiding public roads as much as possible, reached Momence the next day. His actions excited suspicion, and he was arrested on suspicion of having stolen the horse, and was lodged in the Kankakee jail. He was taken out on a writ of habeas corpus, and no proof being found to hold him, he was discharged.

Coming thence to this city, he obtained a situation in a wholesale grocery house. After the usual delays in passing letters through the lines, he learned that his two brothers were killed in the battle of the Wilderness, that his father's estate had been confiscated to the United States Government, and his father had voluntarily exiled him-EXECUTED ON THE SHORTEST NOTICE, self to Mexico. Of his wife and child, the only information was that they had sought to get North, and took passage on the Sul-tana, since which they had not been heard of, and no doubt remained that they had perished. His true position had been studiously concealed, and he avoided his former acquaintances. Shortly after he received this intelligence from the South, Sherman had started on his grand march from Atlan-ta, and Grant marshaled his grand army be-fore Petersburg, and the Confederate States army vanished almost as a vision. During the past summer, Geroux returned to the South, and was fully confirmed in the information he had received about his family, and that his real estate had also been confiscated. He gave his wife and child up as lost, and returned to Cincinnati. After his wife and child had remained in Memphis, and escaped the disaster of the Sultana, she started for Chicago, and reached Camp Douglas. Impatient at the delay. she hastened there with expectations high to meet him who was dearer to her than life .-The reader can picture to himself the agony of this sad wife. A stranger, destitute of money, carrying in her arms a weakly child not yet recovered from a servere illness, and she herself worn out with fatigue and anxiety, when she learned that her husband was dead. There was no doubt of his death; the business in Raleigh, we offer our entire stock of registry kept at Camp Douglas showed it, goods at a small advance on 1 resent New York and the grave was pointed out to her, which bore this description on a pine board : "MAJOR CHARLES GEROUX, Third Louisiana Infantry." The same grave this day is neatly sodded over, and at its head grows a rose-bush.

Broken-hearted and bowed down with grief, she wended her way on foot to the great city of Chicago-not knowing why she went. A stranger among strangers, with no one to aid or pity her, save the good God, who, in her inmost heart, she believed had forsaken her. She was taken in and cared for by the Sisters of Charity until she could hear from ceived no intelligence for the past four years.

A letter was received, stating that immedi-

Geroux returned to his situation at Cincinnati, and was sent by his firm to collect a debt due in Iroquois county. While there, he sought out the attorney who had him discharged on the habeas corpus to learn the whereabouts of the horse that did him such good service, and to secure his assistance in collecting his debt. He soon made himself known, and while they were discussing about the stolen horse, a lady and child entered the same office. There was a momentary pause, Guager's return if for quantity not exand husband and wife were in each other's We shall not attempt to describe the scene which followed. The husband found a wife and child whom he firmly believed to be dead, and the wife found a husband over whose grave she had shed bitter tears

Mrs, Geroux was visiting the same attor-ney to find out about her husband's confiscated property, and to apply to the Government to have his property restored to her. - Cincin-
